CONTRASTING
HAIR LOSS

The most common hormonal type of permanent baldness is the androgenetic alopecia, directly related to the conversion of testosterone to dihydrotestosterone (DHT), which hair follicles are particularly sensitive to, and which causes a shortening of the anagen phase of the hair growth cycle, resulting in hair loss. The female hormones are also responsible for another type of baldness, this time temporary, typical of postpartum.

ACTIVE INGREDIENTS: Red clover, Millet.

The strategy

Re-Collagen® WOMAN

IMPROVING
SKIN
MICROCIRCULATION

The improvement of the microcirculation of the scalp has the beneficial effect of increasing the amount of oxygen and nutrients available to the bulbs.

The hair is stronger and more vital.

ACTIVE INGREDIENTS: ATV COMPLEX[®] (Taurine, Arginine).
